Dear Mary Carter:

When he was courting me, my husband always talked about the big, new house we'd have if I'd marry him. It had tall white columns out on the front veranda, and acres and acres of beautifully landscaped grounds. My, it was pretty the way he went on about it! Then we got married and moved into this broken-down old shack near the river, made out of weather-beaten boards, with mildew all over them.

What I'm wondering is, how much longer should I wait for that big house Alfred promised me? We've been married now for going on 52 years.

Mrs. A. R. F.

Dear Mrs. A. R. F.:

Have patience, my dear! Some men are naturally slow starters, and apparently Alfred is one of these.

In the meantime, though, even that miserable shack you've been (ugh!) living in for 52 years can be made to look like new. The paint specialists at any Mary Carter Paint Store will be pleased to show you my fine Mary Carter House Paint, for example. It won't add any columns to your front porch, but Mary Carter House Paint contains inhibitors that help keep mildew away!

Every can is quality—guaranteed and you get a second can free, at no extra cost, with every one you buy. Get Alfred to take you to a Mary Carter Paint Store today—this may be the start he needs!
